Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-3,6-9,11-12,15-16,and 18-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Heath, et al. (US 6,198,655B1).

Heath et al discloses a molecular switch(col. 2, lines 35-36). The operation of the switch is by the change in energy level as shown by Fig. 5A and 5B, which are energy diagrams(col. 2, lines 61-67). There is a change in the configuration(col. 3, lines 37-41) of the molecules, which is the same as a change in the conformation. The molecular material is between electrodes(col. 4, lines 37-47). The molecular shape change causes an energy barrier (col. 5, lines 55-67), which satisfies the limitation that the band gap change occurs via molecular conformation change. The configuration change includes rotation under applied voltage or electric field, and it can be seen in Fig. 4B that there is extended pi bonding in the molecule which would change in energy level as indicated by the energy diagrams of Fig. 5A and 5B(col. 6, lines 15-25 and 40-52). Fig. 4B also shows the folding. The electrode wires are at an angle(col. 8, lines 64-67), as they are disclosed to be perpendicular. They are also crossing as they are disclosed to be on top of other wires(col. 9,lines 1-5 and col. 2, lines 34-36). The devices which are formed may be memory cell(col. 9, lines 7-10). The dimensions of the devices are nanometers(col. 1, lines 50-54).

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970);and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-20 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-7 of U.S. Patent No. 6,763,158B1. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims differ in the recitation of a molecular switch and of an optical switch. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art that a molecular switch can be used as an optical switch. In addition the recitation of an optical switch in the preamble is simply a statement of use, and the molecule is not patentable different.

The prior art of record not relied upon is considered relevant to applicant's disclosure. Schlag discloses a molecular switch. However, rather than a band gap change, the mechanism is electron hopping which is a local excitation(paragraph 0014).
